When tabbing through items in the Employees form, users should not be able to navigate to the Salary text item. If they need to update the item, they will have to explicitly navigate to it by using the mouse.

Which property setting accomplishes this requirement?

- A. Enabled = No; Keyboard Navigable = Yes
- B. Automatic Skip = Yes
- C. Enabled = Yes; Keyboard Navigable = Yes
- D. Enabled = Yes; Keyboard Navigable = No
- E. Enabled = No; Keyboard Navigable = No

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation: * Keyboard Navigable property

Description

Determines whether the end user or the application can place the input focus in the item during default navigation. When set to Yes for an item, the item is navigable. When set to No, Form Builder skips over the item and enters the next navigable item in the default navigation sequence. The default navigation sequence for items is defined by the order of items in the Object Navigator.

Applies to all items except chart items and display items

* Default

Yes

Usage Notes

If Enabled or Visible is set to No (PROPERTY_FALSE for runtime), then the items' or item instance's Keyboard navigable property is effectively false. At runtime, when the Enabled property is set to PROPERTY_FALSE, the Keyboard_Navigable property is also set to PROPERTY_FALSE. However, if the Enabled property is subsequently set back to PROPERTY_TRUE, the keyboard Navigable property is NOT set to PROPERTY_TRUE, and must be changed explicitly.
