Which description of a shared tree in a multicast routing design is true?

- A. optimal path for multicast data between the source and the receiver
- B. routing tree that has its root at the source
- C. meeting place for the source and the receiver of multicast data
- D. distribution tree that has its root at the RP

Answer: D

Explanation:

https://www.cisco.com/en/US/tech/tk828/tech_brief09186a00800a4415.html The two basic types of multicast distribution trees are source trees and shared trees:

Source trees--The simplest form of a multicast distribution tree is a source tree, with the source at the root and the receivers at the branches. Because this tree uses the shortest path through the network, it is also referred to as a shortest path tree (SPT).

Shared trees--A shared tree uses a single common root placed at a chosen point in the network.

This shared root is called a Rendezvous Point (RP)
